Diploma in Translation

The Diploma in Translation (DipTrans) is a professional qualification, set at level 7 (Master's level) and regulated by the Office of Qualifications and Examinations Regulation (Ofqual).

Specialist qualification for translators

The DipTrans is a specialist qualification for translators. It is recognised and highly respected within the translating profession and shows that holders of the qualification possess the knowledge and skills necessary to provide translations of the highest quality. In any professional field of work, a specialist qualification demonstrates to employers and clients that you are at the top of your profession.

International recognition

The DipTrans is recognised worldwide as the benchmark qualification for professional translators, and forms a major part of their credentials to distinguish themselves in an ever increasingly competitive marketplace. It is intended for working translators and for those wanting to embark on a career in professional translation.

The gold standard qualification

The DipTrans was first offered in 1989 and it is now taken in around 40 countries annually as candidates around the world recognise the benefits that a high-level qualification brings. It serves both as an entry qualification for organisations employing translators, as a validation for freelance translators for their skills and has become the qualification of choice for organisations when selecting professional translators.

Milestone for professional translators

The qualification provides a recognised milestone for professional translators. It allows you to develop your career in your chosen sector through, for example, setting up your own translation company, working as a freelance translator, employment as in-house translator, or entering other language-related professions such as publishing, journalism, PR, or language teaching.

Many CIOL translating members have taken the Diploma in Translation. Read their stories to find out how the qualification has helped them in their careers.

This qualification not only helped me gain the professional recognition that I needed to further my career, but also led to possibilities of working with more prosperous clients who only sought translators with suitable qualifications.

Ali Yildirim MCIL Chartered Linguist

Read more: Being a professional, qualified linguist

I vividly remember how proud and more confident I felt as a translator to obtain my DipTrans. It has certainly made a positive difference and increased the number of calls I receive from agencies and other clients. I can honestly say that it allowed me to have the competitive edge over other translators who did not have the title CIOL DipTrans next to their names.

Adam Turk MCIL

The DipTrans is a valuable recognition and professional validation, and has had a positive impact on my career. It shows my clients that I value their business, and new clients have now started to contact me.

Maria Cristina Petrizzi da Silva MCIL Chartered Linguist

What agencies look for when recruiting translators preparing for the DipTrans:

When we're considering adding translators to our books, linguists with formal qualifications like the DipTrans stand out because we know straight away that they are appropriately qualified, with the skills required to deliver professional quality translations.

Hannah Stacey

Head of Operations at Surrey Translation Bureau

Tips for candidates preparing for the DipTrans:

Preparing for the DipTrans exam requires reflection and practice... Frequent practice using source texts or past papers is important... Practice also means reading good-quality articles in source and target languages.

Michael Routledge

DipTrans Chief Moderator

DipTrans award winners

Every year we present awards to candidates with the highest marks in the DipTrans. Three recent award-winning DipTrans candidates demonstrate the different routes to approaching the qualification. One already had a first degree and a Masters in Interpreting and Translation; another had a degree and was bilingual; while a third had school level qualifications but 30 years of practical working experience in translation.

Whatever route you take, the DipTrans is an achievement to be proud of and will give you more confidence in your skills as a translator.

In these short interviews, our award-winners talk about how they prepared for the exam, and how they found they had access to new sources of work after achieving the qualification.

It's important to practice and get feedback from fellow translators.

Qualification structure

---

The qualification is made up of three units:

Core unit: Unit 01 General Translation (3 hours)

Mandatory options units:

Unit 02 Semi-specialised text in a Technology, Business or Literature context (2 hours)

Unit 03 Semi-specialised text in a Science, Social Science, Law or Arts and Culture context (2 hours)

While the full DipTrans qualification is the final goal, the semi-specialised texts in the mandatory options provide an opportunity to demonstrate applied translation within specific contexts, as listed above.

Each unit is both challenging and rewarding, carries its own unit certificate, and is a step towards gaining the full qualification.

A DipTrans semi-specialised unit certificate is the proof of both linguistic excellence and the ability to apply that to specific vocabulary and thematic content within a given area. A unit certificate confirms to an employer or agency that you have a level of skill and the ability to apply it, which will give them absolute confidence on your linguistic skills in your specialised subject area.

The exam is taken in a language combination in which the target language is the candidate's native language. You need to have native speaker competence in both languages. Candidates typically take the exam translating from English (source language) into Polish (target language) for candidates in Poland, for example, or Chinese (target language) for candidates in China.

Contents

Source texts are set on the basis of published materials, for example newspapers, scientific journals, website articles etc. Our setters and moderators ensure that the language level is consistent with the level at which the qualification has been set, that consistency is assured each year and across every language. This is achieved during the setting process when source texts are edited to ensure consistency and to meet the specified word count.

Language combinations

The DipTrans is available in a wide range of language combinations. Please check the CIOL website for the latest language list.

Languages

---

CIOLQ offers the DipTrans in a broad range of languages and ensures consistency in level and standards. The qualification is currently offered from the following source languages into English: French, German, Italian, Russian, and Spanish; and from English into: Albanian, Arabic, Bengali, Chinese, Croatian, Czech, Danish, Dutch, Finnish, French, German, Greek, Hindi, Hungarian, Italian, Japanese, Norwegian, Panjabi, Polish, Portuguese, Romanian, Russian, Slovak, Spanish, Swedish, Tamil, Turkish, and Urdu.

Linguistic proficiency and pre-requisites

There are no set pre-requisites to take the DipTrans, however you are strongly advised to ensure that your level of linguistic attainment in the source language is at the very least equivalent to a good Honours degree, and that you are familiar with the relevant cultural background, and that you prepare sufficiently for the exam.

Availability of the DipTrans

The exam is available internationally, online via our CIOLQ Virtual Centre. CIOLQ accepts candidates who have not attended a course of study. In addition to the UK, the exam has been taken in Bahrain, Canada, China (Mainland, Hong Kong & Macao), Cyprus, France, Germany, Greece, India, Ireland, Italy, Netherlands, Poland, Portugal, Russia, Singapore, Spain, Trinidad & Tobago, UAE and Uruguay.

How to register for the exam
